

Tim Durkin CSP

Implementation Specialist,
Executive Coach and Advisor
Captivating Keynote Speaker

SPEAKING TOPICS

- ✓ Moving From Promise to Performance: Becoming an Effective Executive in Today's World.
- ✓ Introduction to Red Team Thinking: Tools and Techniques for Individual, Group and Organizational Success
- ✓ Developing Executive Presence: How to Make an Impact and Leave an Imprint In Any Situation

FAVORITE QUOTE

Accept the present. Let go of the past. Have faith in the future. And in a world where you can be anything...be kind.

STATS

Tim was Vanna White's bodyguard

Tim has authored two books, both NY Times NON-best sellers

Tim has been a Publishers Clearing House Finalist 36 times

ABOUT ME

After a successful career as a C-level executive and management consultant with EY, Tim founded Seneca Leadership Programs, where he develops leaders that can deliver exceptional results in volatile uncertain, complex, and ambiguous times.

In addition to his dozens of clients in healthcare he has worked with Ford, IBM, Exxon Mobil, General Motors, General Electric, AT&T, and Proctor and Gamble to name a few.

He is the former Academic Director in the Southern Methodist University, Cox School of Business, Executive Education, where he still serves as instructor.

He is also a Marine Corps veteran.

Derek Jeter, Former New York Yankee, and member of the Baseball Hall of Fame said: "Anyone who wants to learn about leadership should call Tim Durkin."

PAST CLIENTS

Tim had worked in dozens of rural and community hospitals in 31 different states. He has also work in many major medical institutions including Johns Hopkins, Adventist, Texas Health Resources, Baylor Scott and White and Select Medical.